In this case, the Jamik Kauman Sragen Mosque itself also has various roles and functions in society in Sragen Regency, Central Java, including being a place of worship, social, economic, educational, political, da’wah and health.

Discussion
Jamik Kauman Mosque is one of the oldest mosques in Sragen Regency, Central Java, with an area of around 144 m², at its inception and was located in Kauman Hamlet, Sragen Wetan Village. Since it was founded by KH. Zainal Mustofa in 1826, the Jamik mosque underwent many changes to its physical building. The Jamik Kauman Mosque itself is called Kauman because this mosque was once the residence of Islamic boarding school students who were studying Islam. Like the Kauman Masaran Mosque, where the mosque was previously used to spread Islam in Bumi Sukowati.

Based on research findings, it is known that the Jamik Kauman Mosque in Sragen Regency, Central Java carries out religious functions, social functions, educational functions and da’wah in the community. In terms of religious functions, the Jamik Kauman Mosque acts as a place of worship for Kauman residents and Muslims in carrying out religious services such as the five daily prayers and other religious activities including recitation and routine study after dawn.

As is known, the main function of a mosque is as a place of prayer. Literally, prayer means "connecting", namely connecting oneself to God, therefore prayer is not just worship (Suparman, 2015). The main function of the Jamik Mosque is as a place of worship to Allah SWT, a place to pray and a place to worship Him. The five times a day and night are Fajr, Zuhr, Asr, Maghrib and Isha. Muslims are advised to visit mosques for congregational prayers. This mosque is also the place where the names of Allah are most often chanted through the call to prayer, tasbih, tahmid, qamat, tahliil, istighfar and other words that are allowed to be recited in the mosque as lafaz related to praising the name of Allah.

Jamik Kauman Mosque is also used for Sunnah prayers, including Friday prayers which are held every Friday, and Tarawih prayers which are held on fasting nights, as well as Eid al-Fitr prayers which are held on Eid al-Fitr, and Eid al-Adha prayers. Congregational prayer itself is important in order to create Islamic ukhuwah unity between fellow believers who are members of the Jamik mosque congregation. This is in accordance with research (Hidayat, 2019). As the name suggests, a mosque is a place of prostration, so its main function is as a place of prayer. As we know, the meaning of worship in Islam is broad, involving all activities in life aimed at gaining the pleasure of Allah SWT (Hidayat, 2019). So the function of the mosque is not only as a place of prayer but also as a place of wide worship in accordance with Islamic teachings.

Furthermore, based on the findings, the social function of the Jamik Kauman Mosque in Sragen plays a role as a means of gathering for residents and providing social assistance-based activities. In this case, Muslims themselves support the teachings of monotheism (faith) which is one and unifying. Because, mosques are actually not only a means of connecting people with the Khaliq, but also with other people in regular and functional interactions. In accordance with research (Qadaruddin, Nurkidam, & Firman, 2016) mosques in general. Mosques as a component of social facilities are one of the facilities which is a building where the majority of Muslims gather to carry out worship as a spiritual need required by the human community, in addition to basic needs material. Thus, in order for material and spiritual prosperity to be achieved, facilities to meet these two needs must be adequately available in an environment.

Mosques have long been places of worship to the Creator. Until now, mosques are not only used as places of worship, but also as mediators for the spread of Islam, where mosques are not just a form of culture in the form of man-made buildings. The container of Islamic culture itself is society or social unity. All actions and creations that are realized in Islamic society are Islamic culture. Because the social unity of Muslims is the result of worship, because the social unity of Muslims and elements of Islamic culture are connected by mosques, one of which is congregational prayer activities in mosques and other social activities.

The mosque is an Islamic social institution which is a place where various social processes take place, one of which is the interaction of community members with cultural differences. Islamic society as an Islamic social system has never been able to separate itself from its environment, therefore the environment is important in building a mosque. The main purpose of Muslims gathering in mosques is not just to pray, but these meetings develop a process of interaction and communication, where matters of mutual interest are discussed. Gradually, an emotional bond emerged and a social unity was formed between them, namely the social unity of Muslims. Mosques are not only considered as religious instruments, but also as social tools that can facilitate consolidation and communication in society.

In terms of economic activities, mosques act as intermediaries in distributing aid to residents through zakat and alms donations which are managed by the LAZZIZ NU cooperative. It is known that the relationship and role of mosques in the economy, according to Gazalba, is not a relationship in the form of real economic activities such as production, distribution and consumption. Its role in the field of ideals or economic concepts is based on principles of the Koran and Hadith (Haerisma, 2019). Historically, the relationship between mosques and economic activities was not only limited to places where economics was studied, but also to the environment where economic activities were held, especially around the mosque area. At the same time, the Jamik Kauman Mosque continues to carry out research and ideas on Islamic economics through joint activities to support a shared economy that is beneficial for the mosque and the congregation.

From Islamic teachings, Islamic economics is an important part. Economic problems are the most urgent problems (dharury). Scholars in the past never ignored the study of muamalah (Islamic economics). This can be proven in the books of their work. Islamic economics does not only a pillar of Islamic progress but also a fardhu 'ain for every community to know Islam.

Based on its educational function, the Jamik Kauman Sragen Mosque functions as a non-formal education facility that provides education to community through regular weekly recitations on Islamic education topics. Besides that, Mosque Jamik also has a small study area for congregation, especially a small library which provides the Koran and books as well as a collection of Islamic religious books. Because the function that the Jamik Mosque must carry out is improve Muslim education until reach mosque congregation who understand Islamic teachings completely or completely and perfectly. In the field of improving human resources, mosques can play an important role as a means of developing Islamic insight through organizing recitations and skills education which are held regularly or routinely in connection with certain events, so that mosques become centers of enlightenment and guidance for the people around them (Qadaruddin et al., 2016).

Mosques are centers of education and teaching, by Because That mosque called Also center knowledge knowledge. Knowledge be delivered through assessment, lecture, lecture, and sermons. Therefore, all education cannot be separated of spiritual (spiritual) life. Mosques are the main educational institutions for Muslims. Because here comes one child Muslims were first introduced to patterns life Islamic practices such as: how to perform ablution, pray with introduce hijaiyah letters. As are we know, educational centers are: schools, neighborhoods, homes, and places of worship (Alfarisi & Nufus, 2019).

In its missionary function, the Jamik Kauman Mosque in Sragen acts as a means of preaching through holding large recitation activities and regular lectures by religious leaders. Da'wah activities at the mosque in the form of large recitations are held every year by the mosque management, as well as those held by the NU organization in the Jamik Kauman Mosque environment. This annual grand recitation is held to commemorate the Haul of the Mosque Builders. In accordance with research (Qadaruddin et al., 2016) mosques and Islamic da'wah are two factors that are closely related to each other, mutually filling each other, if they are likened to a warehouse with its goods. Mosques have a very big function in da'wah, both the da'wah carried out by the Prophet to his friends, and between friends.

Da'wah is the obligation of every Muslim according to the instructions The Qur'an and Hadith, remind each other of the truth and advise each other Be patient. Apart from that, Da'wah is an activity that has the value of worship aims to build or shape society through the teachings of the Islamic religion, through Islamic religious messages. In essence, da'wah activities can be carried out using various existing facilities, including the use of mosques as a means of da'wah activities. Since the time of Rasulullah SAW, mosques have been used as a means of da'wah activities.

This can be seen for example on efforts to establish the first mosque, esp Quba Mosque in the city of Medina. At that time, The Quba Mosque is used for various activities such as...
guarding connection friendship (communication interactive), organizing teaching and learning activities, managing the center commerce Baitul Mall, formulate war strategies, and carry out social activities, as well as become the center for designing and implementing da’wah strategies.

Regarding health functions, there were no medical centers or clinics found at the Jamik Kauman Mosque in Sragen. However, the mosque supports and holds health-based activities such as blood donations and vaccinations. Meanwhile, no political function was found because the Jamik Kauman Mosque separates religious and political activities and does not provide space for the spread of certain political ideologies.

Historically, it is recorded that during the time of the Prophet Muhammad, mosques functioned as: 1) Centers of worship; 2) Education and teaching center; 3) Center for solving people's problems in legal (judicial) aspects; 4). Center for economic empowerment of the people through Baitul Mal; 5) Islamic information center; 6) It was even a center for military training and the affairs of the Prophet's government. There are many other functions of mosques. In short, during the time of the Prophet, mosques were used as the center of Islamic civilization (Rosadi, 2014).

Basically The Jamik Mosque is a place of worship that must be clean with the principle of producing people who are devout and faithful, religious and responsible. Apart from that, the mosque Jamik also creates orderly worship community, developing istiqamah and Islamic society, and providing social services to congregation and Muslim community with all the integrity of the community religious. Zein too explains in his book that the function of the mosque is as a place of worship between others: 1) Human relationship with God in the form of: prayer, I'tikaf and others; 2) The relationship between humans and man form: zakat fitrah, marriage and others; 3) Man's relationship with himself Alone, form: seeking knowledge, reading Al-Qur'an, etc. 4) The relationship between humans and nature is understood as: maintaining, utilizing and not destroying nature.

Once the mosque is well established in its various forms, the congregation or community members will manage and operate it so that it can be maintained and used accordingly. with roles and responsibilities he answered.
